NFMRI

2014 NFMRI Awards

The 2014 NFMRI Awards will be held on Wednesday, 10 December 2014 in Sydney. The Awards will see us present the inaugural Dr John Dixon Hughes Medal for Medical Research Innovation, the grant recipient of our funding partnership with the NSW Department of Primary Industries, as well as our 2015 grants.

We are pleased to be holding the event in collaboration with the NSW Department of Primary Industries, who recognise the importance of philanthropy, research and innovation.

Expressions of interest for Portfolio 3 now accepted year round

To assist with the advancement of later stage research projects crossing the "valley of death", NFMRI is now accepting expressions of interest from researchers at any time. These will be reviewed by our research advisory committee in association with funding opportunities and will assist the foundation to communicate opportunities with donors.

Given the stage of Portfolio 3 research, it is anticipated that these expressions of interest would be prepared with the assistance of the relevant industry engagement office.

Applicants will find the foundation's introductory presentation and impact giving strategy document helpful. The foundation strongly advises applicants to consider these when preparing their EOI.

2014 Grant Round – Successful Recipients

Our Research Advisory Committee and Board have been busy reviewing and assessing shortlisted applications from our 2014 grant round, as well as nominations for the Dr John Dixon Hughes Medal for Medical Research Innovation. Final decisions will be made in November. Announcements will be made in early December and successful recipients will be invited to attend our awards night on the 10th December 2014.

2015 Grant Round

As per our normal grant round timeline, expressions of interest for our 2015 grant round will open in February 2015 and close at the end of April 2015. Official announcements will be made early in the new year.
